McCroskey International House Mission Statement and Goals

The goal of the McCroskey International House at Washington State University is to promote cultural awareness and understanding, centering on the exchange of ideas and opinions of people from various nations, races, and religions. The I-House aims to extend learning beyond the traditional classroom setting by providing cross-cultural learning opportunities within student's living environments.

Traditionally, McCroskey has a strong hall government that helps foster and encourage learning about various cultures and backgrounds through fun activities including cultural food nights, intramural sports, dances, dinners, movie nights, and more. Involvement in government and community activities is strongly encouraged for all members of McCroskey, and can positively influence your experience at Washington State University.

In McCroskey, we value everyone sharing a portion of their culture while also becoming a part of the culture of McCroskey. Below, please indicate which hall activities you would like to be involved in during your residence in McCroskey International House. If there is something that you are interested that is not listed, but that you would be willing to share with other members of the McCroskey community, please add it in the "other" category.
