Teaching Middle and High School World History through a Global and Environmental Perspective with *World History for Us All

This hands-on workshop will introduce middle and high school teachers to the open-sourced World History for Us All online world history curriculum. Presenters from Long Beach Unified School District in California will share their experiences and practices in using this curriculum to teach world history from a global and environmental perspective in middle and high school classrooms. They will also present specific lessons and materials that they have authored and developed for the World History for Us All Curriculum.

Presenters:

Linda Cargile, Bancroft Middle School, Long Beach USD

Bringing the Environment into your Classroom:
Strategies for Teaching and Assessing the Environmental Theme in the New AP World History Curriculum

Not all textbooks do an equally good job presenting information about world environmental history. This hands-on workshop offers a three-pronged approach for helping students better understand the role of environmental process in history:

- Learn strategies for incorporating human-environmental relationships into your existing APWH course
- Engage in sample environmentally-focused lessons
- Evaluate sample student assessment
